

Supplier Certification Process

Our supplier certification — known internally as “supplier evaluation” — follows a multi-stage process:

Step 1: Initial Screening

We match your capabilities to specific product requirements and confirm you are a direct manufacturer.

Step 2: Preliminary Evaluation

We review your:

- Company profile and product catalog
- Equipment list (casting, machining, heat treatment, lifting equipment, etc.)
- Certifications, inspection records, and quality documentation
- Past projects and technical drawings
- Workshop and equipment photos

You will also be asked to complete our UMECC Supplier Evaluation Form.

Step 3: On-Site Assessment

When conditions allow, our quality engineers conduct a factory visit to assess:

- Production capacity and technical capabilities
- Management practices, QC system, and worker operations
- Handling of non-conforming products and rework
- Use of subcontractors and environmental compliance
- Financial and operational stability

Step 4: Feedback & Improvement (If Needed)

If your facility shows potential but lacks certain systems or consistency, we provide guidance for improvement. Suppliers with clear gaps but a willingness to improve may undergo a second review.

Step 5: Certification

Qualified suppliers are added to our internal approved vendor list and become eligible for future projects. Many suppliers receive repeat orders for years once integrated into our UMG platform.

Long-Term Expectations

We do not believe in “one-time” relationships. Our suppliers are expected to:

- Maintain stable quality across repeat orders
- Avoid unauthorized changes to raw materials, drawings, or process flows
- Collaborate with UMECC on logistics, packaging, and delivery optimization
- Remain transparent in communication and continuously improve based on feedback

We rarely switch vendors for the same product once quality and cooperation are established.
